

Financial Conversation Starters for Couples

What major lessons about money and finances did you learn from your parents?

If you suddenly came into a million dollars, what would you do with it?

Are money conversations easy for you to have, or do they make you uncomfortable? Why? What can we do to make them more comfortable?

What things do you consider to be “good debt”? Do you feel comfortable or stressed about the debt you have now?

Would you rather have a modest income at a job you enjoy or be wealthy but work a job that stresses you out? Why?

What is one thing you would like to do differently in regards to your finances this year?

How would you define “financial freedom”?

If you had a child, what financial lessons would you teach them?

